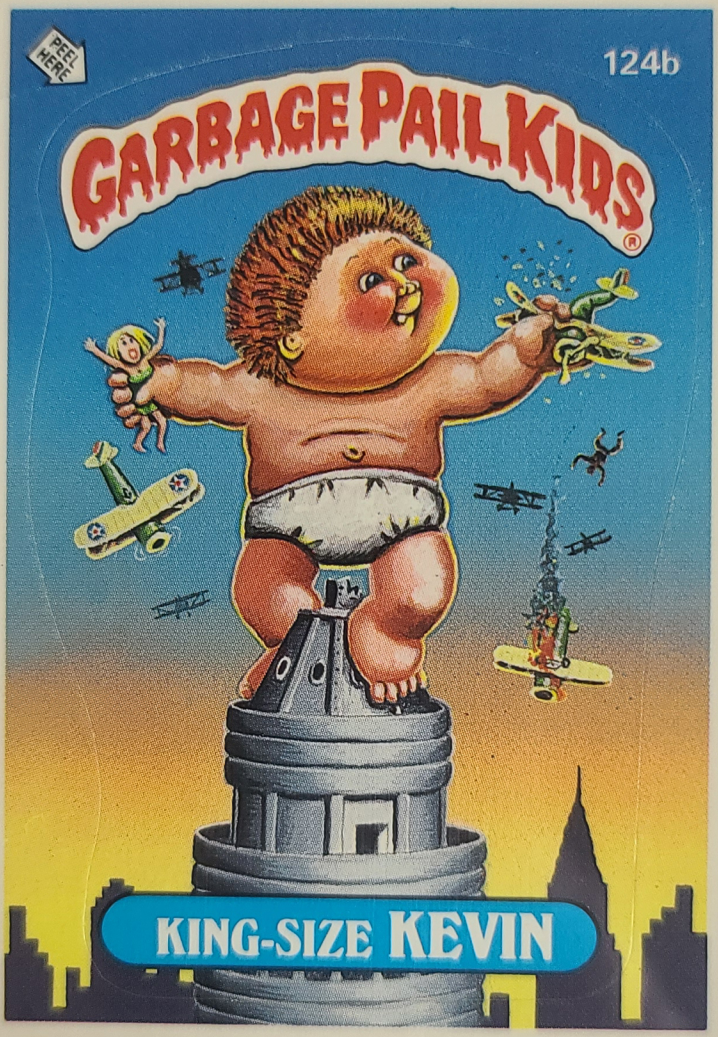
SUPER TURBO

CERTIFIED COOL COLLECTION BOOTLEG MOVIE TRADING CARDS!

THE OFFICIAL ZINE OF

THE MUSEUM OF COOL



#THEHOBBY #TRADINGCARDS #VHS

Ahoy and bow wow, man. I'm The Doug, man! I'm the curator and director of The Museum of Cool, a crowdfunded and crowdsourced trading card collection. Another thing I do is @greencircleyall on most platforms. Green Circle is my online identity, where I super collect WWE mat relics and trade cards like crazy. Most of all, I rep the low-end! This issue, we take a look at Dugg Trading Cards' bootleg series, The Museum of Cool's new line of slabbed trading cards with custom labels, some #wrestlingcards #cardart, review a VHS from our collection, and, of course, take an inside look at what to expect when we officially announce the arrival of Exhibit Five! Thank you, won't you?

SINCERELY,

Exhibit Five - Preamble

So, full disclosure: I've started making this issue AFTER ordering Exhibit Five, but BEFORE receiving it in the mail. So, at the time of this writing, I do not have Exhibit Five in my hands, but I do know what it's going to be. We'll talk about Exhibit Five next issue.

BUT, I wanted to remind everyone reading how we decide each exhibit. Every month, on the Patreon page (patreon.com/greencircleyall), I post a poll for all of our supporters to vote on. This month, we had a dead tie. Half of the supporters wanted a low-graded music card, and the other half wanted a wrestling card.

Get a pack of Godzilla cards and grade the best one with Pure Graded X	0%
Get another low graded music card	50%
Get a sticker insert from a 1970s/80s television/movie set	0%
Get a card made pre-1972	0%
Get a loose singles lot and let the Board vote on which one gets added	0%
Get a sports (non-wrestling) card	0%
Get a wrestling card	50%

Since I make all final decisions, I broke the tie and went with wrestling. Largely because Exhibit Three was a music card, we don't have any wrestling cards yet, and variety is the spice of The Museum of Cool.

But, that's not to say I completely ignored the "music card" people. To tease a little bit about what's coming at the end of the issue: The wrestler depicted on the card in Exhibit Five has his own hit song, and has been in SEVERAL music videos.

REVIEWS

BLACK BELT ANGELS:

WHAT IF THREE NINJAS WAS EVEN WORSE?

Black belts! Roller blades! Garth's band! Man, this movie has EVERYTHING. And it fails so hard at ALL OF IT.

In a twist on the "rich guy shutting down the rec center" pastiche, Black Belt Angels follows three sisters (and sometimes a fourth African-American girl that pops in and out with no explaination), their dad, a social worker who is bad at her job, and Garth's band, to defeat a...drug lord...maybe...type guy. And the local Ninjas 'R' Us that he keeps just buying ninjas from.

One scene, it turns into a cartoon version of Jackie Chan's Drunken Master (which was cartoony to begin with). Another scene, there are magic RC cars! Did I mention roller blades? They're a pretty important part of this movie. Garth's band rocked pretty hard.

Just remember, you are so powerful, that even a strong man cannot defeat you.

MUSEUM OF COOL
THE CERTIFIED COOL COLLECTION

The Museum of Cool has entered the custom slab game!

PSA, SGC, etc. all employ countless people and expensive equipment just to tell you how perfect a card is. The Museum of Cool trumps them all by having one person who sits there, looks at cards, and decides if they're cool or not. And decide this person does!

This Biz Markie rookie is HELLA cool! The vocalist on the classic song "Just a Friend" ("Oh baby, you! You got what I neeeeeeeed..."). You know. The song you sing when getting drunk on a stoop?

Probably the LEAST amount of work we had to do on a custom label, this label celebrates the album "The Biz Never Sleeps."

Coming from 1991, this card is from the Pro Set Super Stars MusiCards set.

This Certified Cool card is ALREADY in someone else's hands, but I couldn't resist showing it off.

THE BACK OF EVERY LABEL

Another Certified Cool card that has made its way into someone else's hands, we have this Jim Ross rookie year card.

The horniest old man on wrestling Twitter, Jim Ross is also well known for his barbeque sauce. And this custom label is positively dripping with it.

Think what you want of current day J.R., he was responsible for 70% of what happened during the Attitude Era, and was the undisputed voice of Professional Wrestling unitl...still. He still is.

Glad to include Jim Ross in this collection.

Did you know that Andre the Giant made an appearance on The Six Million Dollar Man playing Big Foot?

THIS.

One of my favorite bits is to pretend to not understand a thing, but do it in a way that only someone who TOTALLY gets it would.

For instance: This is CLEARLY a Fortnite card. But, since it's the same character Andre played, I put the Andre label on it.

Cursing is cool. Wolverine is cool. Brown and yellow Wolverine is the MOST cool.

Perfect for any Wolverine ages 13-23, this costume-match custom label features a curse word.

This custom slab is not currently in anyone's hands. If you're interested in picking it up, you can contact us @greencircleyall on Twitter or Instagram!

DID YOU KNOW...

Wolverine became SO overused that he became lame in the '00s? Then, they KEPT using him, and he swung back around to Certified Cool!

People dressing up in rubber monster costumes and knocking down model cities is TIGHT!

And Godzilla? Godzilla is the grandparent of all people dressing up in rubber monster costumes to knock over model cities.

This Japanese language 1995 Godzilla card was already MONSTEROUSLY cool (eh? eh?) before I put it in this slab, but that custom hazy-Tokyo background makes it look EVEN BETTER!

Admittedly, I could have done more work on that phrase below "Godzilla," but Google Translate said that was "Terror of the Bus Industry."

Yo, stop what you're doin', 'cause I'm about to ruin, the image of the collectibles you're used to.

Quick knowledge drop about Digital Underground: 2pac (I'm not "with it" enough to know if it's Tupac or 2pac, but he was DEFINITELY going by 2pac at the time) was in this group. Shock G played Humpty Hump, and is a legendary rapper.

In the movie Nothing But Trouble, Chevy Chase and Demi Moore play a yuppy couple who get arrested and kidnapped for running from the cops in a backwoods town run by a ruthless judge (Dan Aykroyd) and his cop offspring (John Candy and Valri Bromfield from SCTV).

While Chevy and Demi are trying to escape the murder funhouse that is The Judge's home, Candy brings in a band (Digital Underground). They perform "Same Song" with Aykroyd, at the end of which, you THINK he's going to kill them all (he's killed everyone arrested other than Demi & Chevy at this point) but, nope. He lets them go. Cause they rapped a song really well.

This is also the Humpty Hump band.

So, they're cool as hell! Thanks to Burger King Kids Club for not doing anything about me using your logo without asking.

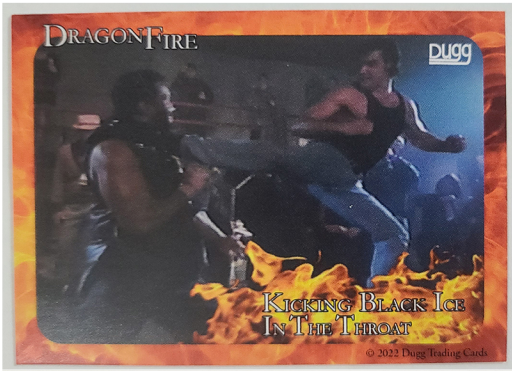
BOOTLEG TRADING CARDS:
DUGG TRADING CARDS TURNS OBSCURE VHS TAPES INTO CARDBOARD GOLD

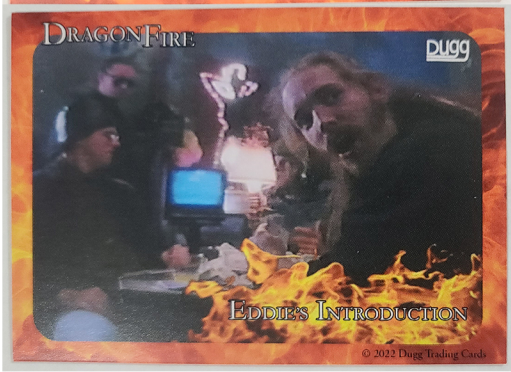


Dragon Fire

Maybe his throat would be stronger if he's stop eating all those lightbulbs.

Dragon Fire

Even his own sister can't say "No" to Eddie.



Dragon Fire

Eddie likes to bluff.

Don't be like Eddie.

Dragon Fire

Powers never fails to impress. Even the impossible to impress Steampunk Weird Al!

Dugg Trading Cards has put out Professional Thumb Wrestling trading cards & Dog Turd Trading Cards. Now, it's putting out bootleg trading cards for obscure VHS tapes. These are all one-of-a-kind cards I really made.

Dragon Fire

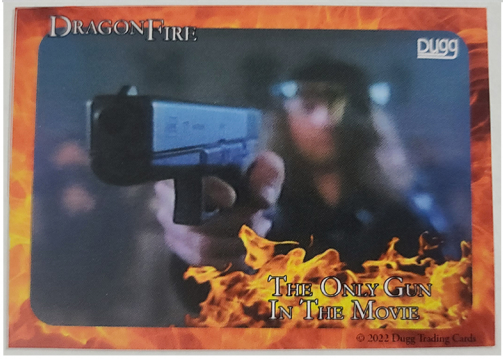
Bad any time, any planet.

Dragon Fire

This movie makes no sense.

Dragon Fire

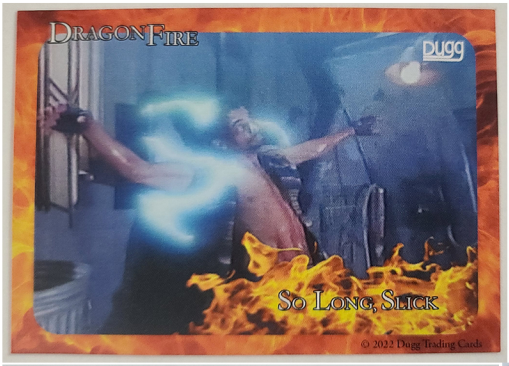
This dude hits like a turkey leg.
Covered in turkey juice.



Dragon Fire

This is an American movie. Where is there only ONE gun?

We started off with two of our favorite martial arts movies: Dragon Fire & Black Belt Angels. On the vast ends of the spectrum (Black Belt Angels is a kid's movie and Dragon Fire has lots of boobies and eff bombs), I thought it would be a fun way to start.



Dragon Fire

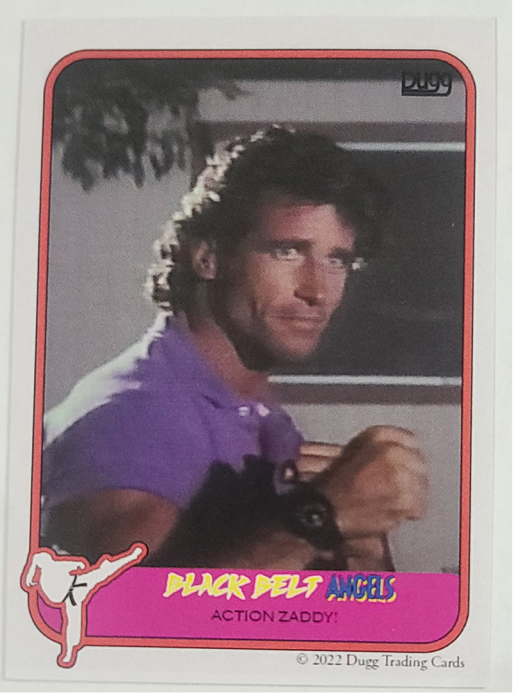
Sorry to see you go, Slick. Even though you being the bad guy was SUPER telegraphed.

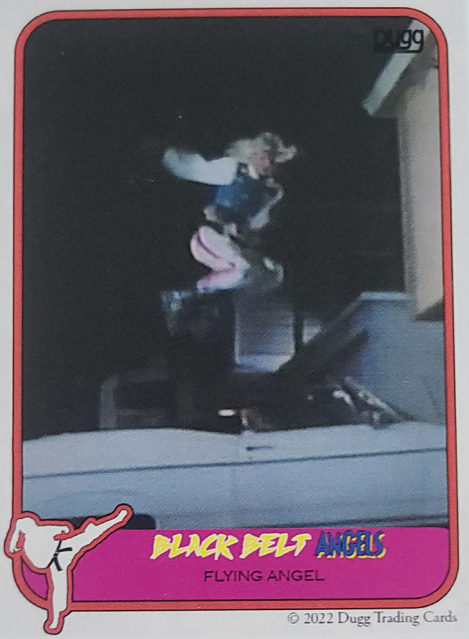
Black Belt Angels 01

Training montages are so important to a young woman's karate development.

Black Belt Angels 12

Sploosh.





BLACK BELT ANGELS 66

This movie is great. I'll NEVER get tired of mediocre roller blading.

BLACK BELT ANGELS 31

These guys freakin' rock! Check out that keyboard player!

BLACK BELT ANGELS 24

The Ninja Merchant has so many ninjas! But NONE OF THEM are more powerful than a moody teenager!

BLACK BELT ANGELS 23

The guy in the hat is, no kidding, shopping for ninjas.

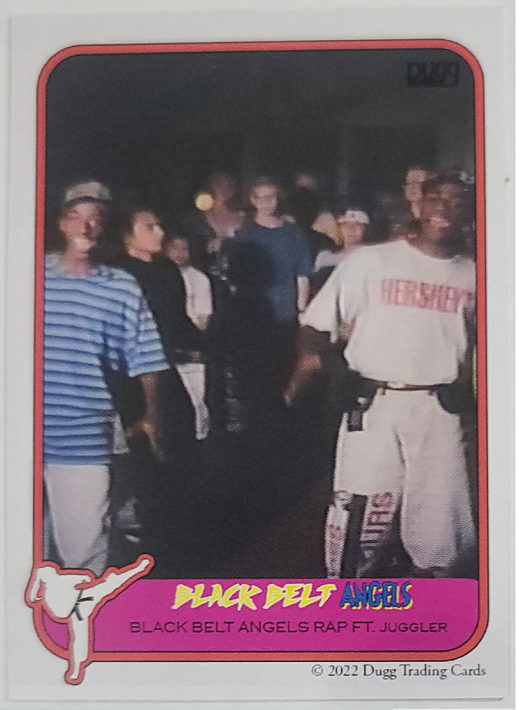
Shopping. FOR NINJAS!

BLACK BELT ANGELS 71

Aparently, Drunken Master and Ninja Merchant have a long-standing beef that has not been hinted at up until this point. This parking lot fight will settle that.

BLACK BELT ANGELS 49

The director's only note on this scene: Not enough juggling.



BLACK BELT ANGELS 65

"Uhhhhh...duuuuhhhhhh..."
